FRED WILLIFORD--RESIGNED OR FIRED?

Thinking Out Loud

By H. M. L.

The American Eagle takes to the air. Ever since the Wrights lifted their odd contraption off the ground at Kittyhawk, the old Eagle has been making progress to be sure, but he has not really soared until now. His long distance eye perceives a war approaching. Afar he sniffs the frightening smell of human carnage. Every day now his great wings carry him higher into the heavens.

From a bulletin just at hand from the University of California we read that at 675 universities and colleges throughout the country pilot training centers have been established. These are under the sponsorship of the Civil Aeronautics Authority. For the first year the cost to the student is only $13.20, of which $6 is paid for a physical examination and $7.20 for insurance. Pretty low rate for a vocation that millions of people regard as especially hazardous. In the University of California Extension Division alone, 500 students have learned to fly, including ten young women. The total for all the schools of the country was 45,000 graduate pilots. By that we do not mean that all were qualified to fly passenger ships or military craaft, but they did master the elementals of flying and are on their way to future usefulness in the air, come war or peace

In addition to the 45,000 students in first year training, there were 8000 students who completed th secondary or higher course in these 675 schools. Of that number 1835 entered Army service, 701 went into the Navy's flying squadrons. And this year there are 55,000 students training in these schools. This means that the United States is really becoming air-conscious. These young men and women are the seeds from which the next great United States industry will grow. We don't know what the future holds for us after the war, but a good guess will be that the younger generation, especially, will take to the air. To supply that tremendous peace market for planes, which we can sense is just over the horizon, the automotive industry will have changed over at least half of its productive capacity by the time the war ends, and together with the airplane industry, greatly expanded by war demands, they will send hundreds of thousands of planes soaring into the air.

If anyone wishes to know what will become of the two million or more men, who will be demobilized when the war ends, it is a safe bet that a very large percentage of them will be engaged in some form of plane manufacture or transportation. Continuing this speculative line, let us glance at the automotive industry, as it may find itself three or four years from now, at war's end.

The plane will displace the automobile to an incalculable extent. Automobile manufacturers will be under the necessity of making better and cheaper cars. We have not yet had produced a real-streamlined car. This will come. It will be faster in order to compete with airplanes, and roads will have to be safer, that is to say, separated as to the going and coming traffic, more straight-aways, longer curves, and with more beauty by the wayside. In other words ground travel will have to be made more attractive. The traveler in the air sees a map, but the terra firma fellow in his car sees nature in all its infinite and beautiful variety.

The cause of all this quick development is the sharp prod of war need. So far as commercial air transport is concerned, we were at the head of the world class two years ago. But now that war requires something more devastating in air power than has yet been devised by nations actually in the war, we find we can outstrip them two ways, in quality man power and in the machine itself. When the war is over then, we shall have that much of a head start. And, we don't have to be a superior race. or pure Aryan to do it. Let us consider ourselves a hodgepodge race of all races, if you please, and when the Huns are beaten at their own game, their humiliation will be the greater.

Watt Will Trial Still In Progress

CASE EXPECTED TO CONTINUE INTO NEXT WEEK

The trial of the contest of the will of the late Mrs. Alison Finnie Watt today entered its fourth day with no indication the case would finish this week.

The action is being heard before Superior Judge Warren Steel of Yuba County by a jury of ten men and two women.

Robert Finnie, sr., of Sacramento, is seeking to break the will of his sister, Mrs. Alison Watt, a past grand president of the Native Daughters of the Golden West.

Mrs. Watt left her estate, valued at between $25,000 and $30,000 to other relatives, various organizations, friends and her closest friend, Daniel L. Stewart of Grass Valley.

Finnie and other witnesses for the plaintiff, testified during the several years prior to her death Mrs. Watt appeared to be mentally ill, and did not know what she was doing.

The plaintiff is represented by Attorneys John LaRue, James Snell and Vernon Stoll.

The defendants are represented by Orrin Lowell of Auburn, Frank Finnegan, Dwight Steele and William Cassettari. The defendants, besides Stewart, include the Huntington Library, City of Grass Valley, Laurel Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West.

The jurors hearing the case are: Stephen J. Cocking, George Falmbigl, F. Sweeney, Ralph Penrose, Albert G. Burke, Bert Davidson, Frank S. Wood, Grace Montre, Walter Boland ,Eugene W. Chester, William E. Mullis and Minnie Lady.

DEATH SUMMONS ISADORE HYMAN

Word was today received in this city of the death of Isadore Hyman, youngest son of L. Hyman, who formany years conducted a dry goods store at the site on Broad now occupied by Bolton's. Isadore Hyman left Nevada City in 1938 after selling his home on Broad street to Lee Day. Death occurred at his country home near Quincy in Plumas county. He was about 50 years of age. Surviving him is an older brother Michael Hyman, and a sister who resides in the southern part of California.

FISH AND GAME PARTOL PLANTS TROUT IN LAKES OF COUNTY

The fish and game patrol during the past two months has been planting thousands of trout fry in the lakes and streams of this county.

Eighteen pack horses loaded with cans of fish left the Bear Valley hatchery Tuesday for some of the higher lakes, where the trout will be planted.

Officer Ends Service With Sheriff Carl J. Tobiassen Following Tiff Here July 8

SHERIFF SAYS JUNIOR DEPUTY DISCHARGED BY HIM FOR "THE GOOD OF THE ORGANIZATION"

Nevada Countyans are forced to use their own judgment on whether Deputy Sheriff Fred Williford has resigned, effective August 1st, or whether he was discharged by his superior, Sheriff Carl J. Tobiassen, effective August first.

Tobiassen said: "I discharged Williford for the good of the organization."

Williford says: "I resigned."

There had been an undercurrent of feeling between Sheriff Tobiassen and his junior deputy for the past year. It came to a climax with a heated quarrel in the sheriff's office here July 8th.

Anyway out of that session came a definite understanding Williford's employment terminated on August first.

Williford, who is at present taking the second week of his vacation, said he will release a statement on August 1st.

Sheriff Tobiassen said following his discharge of Williford he told him he could remain on the payroll until August 1st so he could take advantage of the week vacation due him. Williford had previously taken the first week of his vacation.

Williford, formerly employed as a police officer in Grass Valley, was appointed deputy by Tobiassen two years ago after the board of supervisors granted the sheriff's request for a third deputy.

Williford, besides routine sheriff's office work, handled the fingerprinting and the photographing.

His active work in the Nevada-Sierra Peace Officers Association resulted in his election last spring as president of the organization.

Sheriff Tobiassen said today he will not at present announce Williford's successor. The sheriff said he will reorganize his staff and Williford's successor will not necessarily handle the photographing and fingerprinting work.

Mt. Oro Mining Properties May Be Optioned Soon

Mining men are showing interest in the Mt. Oro mining district near here and several properties are reported on the verge of being optioned.

Recently in development work, A. J and George M. Carey, owners of the Fisher Maiden mine, uncovered a fifty to sixty foot ledge showing free gold. The Careys say in a series of veins running parallel and cutter veins zinc and galina are associated with the gold.

Carries Iron

The ore also carries iron. The Careys state there are at least eight or ten veins on the claims, running in size from four to twenty feet in width with free gold showing in many places.

C. E. Scriven, George Scriven, Homer Scriven and H. S. McIntyre have mining claims adjoining the Carey claims on the east and north. Three tons of select ore recently returned more than $30 in free gold per ton. The Scriven and McIntyre claims also have many large veins.

Veins Exposed

Nearby is the Queen of Mt. Oro. Robert M Ewing is the owner. It is quartz and placer mines combined. The grave channel produced quite a sum in gold on the south rim. The trough of the channel has never been explored. Mining men say there is a large dike on the Queen of Mt. Oro property as well as a number of distinct veins.

The Golden Edna placer and quartz claims adjoining the Ewing property on the west are a promising group. There has been quite a recovery in gold on the south rim of the channel. The Golden Edna property is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ed Martine.

The large belt of quartz veins in Mt. Oro, starting at the Golden Edna, are exposed for nearly two miles in an easterly direction, until the lava capping covers the county rock. The veins are traceable north onto the Washington Ridge and south for a long distance in their general trend.

Englebright: "Immediate Future Picture Is Not A Happy One"

Congressman Harry L. Englebright, in a letter to H. M. Leete, publisher of The Nugget, states "international problems are becoming more involved and the immediate future picture is not a happy one."

"This has been an extremely intense session of Congress," Englebright writes, "and the legislative program and the Administration's ideas change from week to week. The Congress is still confronted with extremely serious problems of finance and of course would be easier to attack if we had a better idea of what burdens we may have to assume. The international problems are becoming more involved and the immediate future picture is not a happy one.

"As you probably know, practically the entire session of Congress has been devoted to national defense matters, but I am glad to tell you that personally I have been quite successful in all of the legislation and appropriations in behalf of our Congressional District."

OFFICERS WILL LEAVE SUNDAY FOR TRAINING

Chief of Police Max Solaro and Deputy Sheriff Carl T. Larsen will leave here Sunday to start two weeks of instruction in a school to train police officers in national defense police work.

The city council authorized Chief Solaro to attend the school and the board of supervisors authorized the attendance of Larsen.

The school opens Monday and will continue until August 9th.

Dog Causes Wreck When It Seeks To Jump From Car To Pursue Deer

W. T. (Buck) Jones was cruising along easily on the Tahoe-Ukiah Highway near the Five Mile House Monday night.

All of a sudden a doe and two fawns jumped from the highway onto the bank.

Jones' dog with a gleeful bark sought to jump out the window to pursue the deer. Jones tried to stop the dog from jumping from the car. The automobile left the highway, striking boulders and finally ending against a cedar tree.

Jones suffered a severe eye injury and face cuts.

N. Ferrier Succumbs Here Today

DECEASED HAD BEEN ILL FOR PAST SIX YEARS

Mrs. Nellie Ferrier, 67, died today at the Winter Street home of her sister, Mrs. Alice Davies, with whom she has made her home for the past 18 years.

Mrs. Ferrier had been practically an invalid for the past six years. She was under the constant care of Mrs. Davies.

The deceased was born at Forest Hill, Placer County, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Craig, pioneers of that community.

She married Thomas Hobson and to that union were born two children. Hobson was killed in 1901 in a hydraulic mining accident near Forest Hill and in 1905 she became the wife of the late David Ferrier.

Th couple formerly resided in Alleghany. The surviving children of the deceased are V. T. Hobson of Grass Valley and Mrs. Lila Huskey of Palo Alto. There are two grandchildren.

Besides her sister, Alice Davies, the deceased leaves two other sisters, Mrs. Fred Locey of Vallejo, and Mrs. Fred Bryant of Forest Hill and a brother, Robert Craig of Forest Hill.

Craig Davies and City Officer Lynn Davies of this city are nephews of the deceased.

The body was taken to the Holmes Funeral Home here. The funeral has been tentatively set for Sunday morning at Forest Hill.

Cap Willard Presides At Gathering

FIRST MEETING OF KIND EVER HELD IN THIS CITY

Nevada City swarmed with law officers of every description today but they were not here to track down criminals.

The officers were guests of Nevada City at their regular meeting. They are members of the Northern California Peace Officers Association, an organization devoted to furthering friendship and cooperation between the authorities in the northern part of the state.

It is the first time the association has ever held its meeting here. The reason for the honor is that Captain A. H. Willard of this city is now the president of the organization.

Captain Willard, an officer of the California Fish and Game Patrol, was elected at the last meeting in Redding. The meeting here today was the first Willard has presided over since the election.

The officers, numbering nearly 100 counting the members of the Nevada -Sierra Officers Association, which held its meeting in conjunction with the Northern Caliofrnia meeting, sat down to a dinner at 12 o'clock noon at the National Hotel.

Following the dinner an entertainment program, arranged by the Nevada City Chamber of Commerce, was presented. President Willard and other local dignitaries welcomed the officers to this city and then Howard C. Bennetts, civilian home defense chairman of Nevada County and commander of Banner Mountain Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, was introduced.

Bennetts gave an enlightening talk on national defense and the part civilians and peace officers can play in the program.

Local Swimming Pool Popular Place As Temperature Soars

The soaring temperature have made the Nevada City Municipal Swimming Pool a popular place during the past several wekes.

The Red Cross Chapter of Nevada City will sponsor a learn to swim school for two weeks, beginning August 4th. Enrollment in the school is expected to be heavy. Harold Houser of Grass Valley will be the instructor.

PROF. OERTEL SPEAKS AT ROTARY

President Oertel of Placer Junior College, was the guest speaker today at the Rotary luncheon which was held in the Shamrock cafe. Horace Curnow was program chairman, and he introduced L. J. Brundage of Auburn, who in turn presented President Oertel.

"Benjamin Franklin just after signing the new Constitution of the United States," said Mr. Oertel, remarked: "We have given you a Republic, if you can keep it." It is not a foregone conclusion that we can keep our democracy. H. G. Wells said in the early twenties that from then on there would be a race between education and catastrophe. At the moment it really looks as if catastrophe was leading.

"The difference between a soldier and an educator as some expressed, it is that the soldier is correcting blunders that some one else has made, while the educator is seeking to prevent blunders from being made.

Down at Placer Junior college we have begun two courses designed to teach our youths useful things to do in defense of the country. One course is in mechanical aviation, and the other, an electrical course as applied to aviation. These will fit our students to do their part in certain defense industries.

"But while we all regard these as of immense importance, there are other things especially neded now, though they are a constant need at all times. That is to teach our youths how to think, how to discriminate. You know President Roosevelt said along in February that the United States should seek to promote throughout the world the four freedoms, these freedoms were: freedom of speech, freedom of religion, freedom from want and freedom from fear. President Hutchinson of the Chicago University took issue with him, in so far as calling upon this country to lead a world crusade for the four freedoms was concerned. He declared that this country was neither morally nor intellectually qualified to lead in such a crusade.

"LIBERALIZED" PENSIONS

The pension-conscious people of California may be expected to receive with keen interest and anticipation the recommenations made this week end by Chairman Arthur J. Altmeyer of the social security board for an eight-point "liberalization" of the federal social security program.

The fundamental idea of Altmeyer's program seems to be to deal with unemployment, old age insecurity and similar problems on a national, rather than a state or local basis, and this is as it should be.

There is one important feature of the program however, about which Californians can well afford to be skeptical.

It is the proposal that the 50-50 matching of federal and state funds for old age pensions and other forms of relief be abandoned in favor of a sliding scale arrangement based on each state's "economic capacity to pay."

The problem of securtiy for aged persons, orphans, blind and unemployed clearly is a nationwide problem, and should be dealt with primarily by the federal government.

And for that reason, it is proper that the federal government should consider abandoning the 50.50 basis in favor of a ratio that would call for a greater proportion of federal funds.

But that is not the idea that Altmeyer seems to have in mind. He apparently would leave the present ratio, or a similiar one, in existence for the "wealthier" states and then increase the federal government's share of the pension payments in the "poorer" states. As the basis for arranging this sliding scale, he would use the commerce department's figures of per capita income in each state.

On this basis, therefore, California, with a per capita income higher than that in most states, would get less aid from the federal government than some "poor" southern state like Mississippi.

But Altmeyer seems to be forgetting, or deliberatelv ignoring, the fact that Californians already are taxed according to their so-called ability to pay, and therefore are contributing far more into the social security coffers than are the citizens of "poorer" states.

In payroll taxes alone (and this is where the social security system gets the bulk of its revenue), Californians pay 16.5 per cent more per capita than the national average.

On the present 50-50 basis, therefore, California pays in something like $1,165 for every $1,000 she gets back; and a poorer state, conversely, might pay only around $800 for every $1,000 it gets in return.

So the government already is penalizing Californians, and probably in a legitimate way, for the fact that our per capita income is better than average.

But what possible justice can there be in giving Californians a double jolt by cutting the $1,000 they get back to $800, for example, and by boosting from $1,000 to $1,200 the take of some other state that contributes only $800?

That would be the same idea as short changing a man you've already over-charged.

Under the present setup, a liberal pension state like California is penalized by the fact that prospective pensioners flock here from poorer states to get in on the gravy, and this setup obviously is wrong.

But the way to correct it is to make the pension program more rather than less uniform throughout the country—not by giving the poorer states a bigger chunk of California's monev and still leaving California with its same burden to bear locally.

Californians already are contributing to the social security program according to their "economic capacity to pay." But the federal government to turn around and ladle the monev out in inverse ratio on the same basis of "economic capacity" would be a double penalty that in no way is either just or equitable.

Let us hope, therefore, that our senator with the one-track mind and our other pension enthusiasts in congress do not get so giddy over the prospect of a liberalized social security setup that they swallow the whole program without looking it over.

TESTAMENT OF AN EDITOR

We like people who give us news items.

We adore club reporters who get their news in the day after instead of the week after the club meeting.

We are fond of folks who know typewritten copy should be double spaced, and of correspondents whose handwriting requires no special decoding.

We appreciate readers who realize that no conclave is held in the newspaper office each press day to decide which small item will appear on the front page and which inside. While we do plan to give front-page space to the several most important stories each week, there is, in our minds, an equality of importance between the Smiths' "company" on Page 1 and the Jonses' dinner guests on Page 7.

We are grateful for fellow citizens who do not make a gleeful practice of pointing out typographical mistakes that get into the paper. We invariably find them ourselves the moment the paper is off the press, and seldom think them funny.

And we greatly esteem those fine souls who take the trouble to compliment us when they have enjoyed "a piece" in the paper.

There are, indeed, some very nice people in the world.—Pleasant Hill (Mo.) Times.

JUST WONDERIN'

I wonder about desert sands
Great mountains and bright stars,
I wonder when the setting sun
Shines forth through crimson bars;
I wonder when the rainbow shines
In drops of morning dew,
And often through these summer days,
I wonder about you.

I wonder about you every day and why shouldn't I? You are one of those kindly persons who sometimes read the lines I write and pass judgment upon them. Of course I wonder about you and worry too, at times.

You may be a pleasing and interesting acquaintance, a dear and valued friend or a stranger whom I have never met and may never have the pleasure of meeting; but whoever you are and wherever you are, to me you are important.

I wonder about your thoughts and fancies, fads, and foibles, serious tasks and care free pleasures. I wonder if you are happy in this topsy-turvy world, if your sense of humor is functioning in the pinches and if your faith in the ultimate triumph of right over wrong, is still unquenchable. Then of course, the personal equation, me, myself floats up to the surface and I wonder how you will react to the words I have here assembled. Will you find a smile or the germ of a thought in some fortunate paragraph, or will you sniff disdainfully and mutter, "what insufferable nonsense?" Indeed there is an element of worry in this line of thought. However, if it is nonsense to wonder and worry about you, then I am certainly nonsensical.

You might be surprised to learn how many people, teachers, preachers, editors, radio personalities, mere columnists and oh, so many others go wondering down these particular lines of thought—worrying too, at times. You might be surprised at the degree of cheer and encouragement afforded them when you send little message either of commendation or constructive criticism. You see, it sets their wondering minds at ease—at least for the time being.

I wonder how the closed season for restaurants is affecting our San Francisco friends. There must be thousands of harried business men who are taking unexpected guests and traveling salesmen home to luncheons and dinners these days. Is that conducive to domestic tranquility?

Japan seems to be standing at the cross roads—double cross roads. "Which shall it be?" Is the cry of every heart. There is much two way looking in Japan these days. It might be well if the great emperor, Son of the Sun, would make a proclamation constituting Janus chief god of the realm.

Uncle Silas says: "Matsuoka's favorite motto is, 'leaves pile up in the east when the west wind blows.' I'd like to add this amendment, while waiting for west winds to pile up the leaves in the east, please watch honorable whirl wind which scatters leaves every which way." A. Merriam Conner.

GIRL OF OLDEN WEST SOUGHT BY STATE FAIR

The quest for the "Girl of the Olden West" was extended to Nevada County today in the California State Fair contest to find the modern beauty who most nearly typifies the spirit and tradition of the pineer west.

With entry blanks placed in the local Chamber of Commerce offices, nomination were open to single girls between the ages of 16 and 25 who have lived in one of the eleven western states for the last five years.

Emphasizing the importance of authentic dress, officials, conducting the contest in cooperation with the Western States Promotion Council, said entrants would be judged on costume, personality and characteristics representing the womanhood of the earrly west. Costumes must represent the period between 1849 and 1880.

Prizes totaling $500 are being offered to the winners who will be decided at the state fair grounds in Sacramento on "Old West Day" to be held during the ten day exposition opening August 29 and running through September 7.

Entries must be mailed to the California State Fair prior to August 17 and contestants must appear in costume at the State Fair on "Olden West Day."

State Consumes Billion Gallons Of Gas In 6 Months

SACRAMENTO, July 24.—An all-time record was established by motorists in California during the first six months of 1941 when they consumed more than one billion gallons of gasoline.

Actually, the gallonage for the first half of the current year has amounted to 1,007,531,896, against which the board assessed a total tax of $30,225,956.97.

Indicative of the increase in gasoline consumtion, the tax amounted to an average of more than $5,000,000 a month. In contrast, June, 1940 was the first month ever to top the $5,000,000 mark and was the only month during the year 1940 to reach such a total.

Spray For Elm Beetles Available

From Agricutural Commissioner L. G. Lageson of Nevada County comes the announcement that Geo. Lambert of Yuba City would be in Nevada City during this week to spray elm trees for the elm leaf beetle. Those desiring to contact for spraying are asked to leave word at the County Agricultural Commissioner's office by telephoning 456.

Lambert is well known here as he annually makes trips for spraying shade trees to this city.

THIS WEEK in DEFENSE

The War Department announced initial deliveries of the A-24, a new dive bomber that can outperform those used by other nations. The department said rifles and sub-machine guns are now being produced at a daily rate of 1,500 compared with 289 one year ago. Under Secretary Patterson issued a statement of army progress showing expenditures increased six fold in the past fiscal year.

Lend-Lease Aid

President Roosevelt sent Lend-Lease Administrator Hopkins to London for a new survey of British needs, and assigned two army generals to speed the flow of munitions and food to Britain. The Surplus Marketing Administration purchased 30,000,000 pounds of tobacco, 2,544,000 bushels of corn and 75,000 bales of cotton for shipment abroad under the Lend-Lease program.

Ships

The Maritime Commission said expansion of the merchant ship-building program requested from the congress would provide 566 new ships by the end of 1943. Although only one of the 312 emergency cargo ships was scheduled for delivery this year, at least 10 will be in operation by December 31, the commission said. The fastest ship construction during the last war was seven months and 24 days, the commission said, but it now hopes to reduce the time to 4 1-2 to 5 months, with two ships completed every day in 1943.

The Maritime Commission took title to 16 more Danish vessels and to four Italian vessels under provisions of the Ship Requisitioning Act and the Coast Guard seized 15 other Italian ships and one German ship to be put into service as soon as sabotage damage is repaired

Aluminum Collection

OPM Conservation Chief McConnell announced housewives donation of used aluminum ware during the collection campaign July 21-29 should permit construction of more than 2,000 additional fighting planes. He said tests indicated a minimum of 15,000,000 net pounds usable in defense manufacture will be collected in the national campaign. Civilian Defense Director LaGuardia said state procurement offices of the treasury department will direct shipment of collected material from concentration points in each state to the nearest selected smelter.

WPA and Defense

WPA Commissioner Hunter said total average WPA employment during the 1942 fiscal year will be maintained at 1,000,000 instead of 1,700,000 as in the past year. He said almost 30 per cent of all WPA workers were employed on national defense projects in June and cuts will be made more slowly from these projects than others.

POST WAR YEARS PRESENT BIGGER PERIL THAN WAR

BERKELEY, July 24.—America and the rest of the world will face, after the cessation of hostilities, even graver problems than are presented by the war, says Dr. Frederick J. Taggart, professor of social institutions at the University of California.

In a recent article in the American Journal of Sociology Dr. Taggart urges that a thorough historical study be made of demobilization after war.

"The difficulties inseparable from war," whatever the outcome of the conflict," Dr. Taggart writes, "do not end with the cessation of fighting, for demobilization presents in the long run problems which have graver issues than the calling out of troops.

"The men drafted as soldiers are 'returned' to civil life, and a grateful country suggests that they should be given preference in employment. Yet, contemporaneously, those who were engaged in war industries—many of them experts diverted to the construction of the elaborate equipment now required for military actions—are also 'disbanded.'

"And where, as in England, the majority of able-bodied men and women have been drawn into war work, the disbanding process must eventually assume bewildering proportions.

"We most urgently need a detailed and thorough study of what has happened in different countries at different times when those engaged in the offorts demanded by war have been released from their war activities."

Leaving Camp Fires Burn Results In Fines To Woman and Two Men

According to Tahoe National Forest officials, Allyn R. Farrel of Sierra City, was fined $50 on July 19, by Judge M. J. Berney, of the Sierraville justice court for allowing a campfire to burn unextinguished in the vicinity of Yuba Pass. Farrel was arrested by Ranger Pete Land of the Sierraville district of the Tahoe National Forest.

Mrs. Leonard M. Thompson of Grass Valley and J. A. McMichael of Nevada City were cited before Justice of the Peace, George Gildersleeve of Nevada City on July 20, by J. D. Rafferty, law enforcement officer United States forest service and game warden Earl Hiscox for leaving burning campfires within the Tahoe National Forest. They later pleaded guilty as charged. McMichael was fined $50 and Mrs. Thompson $25.

Supervisor Ellis reports that due to the existing high fire hazard condition that additional forest patrolmen have been added to the forest in an effort to keep man caused fires at a minimum. All forest users are urged to comply with all regulations contained in the campfire permits.

'LOVE CRAZY' WITH MYRNA LOY HERE SUNDAY

William Powell plays a lunatic to keep Myrna Loy from divorcing him in their newest "man and wife" adventure of the screen, "Love Crazy", hilarious adventure coming Sunday to the Nevada Theatre.

The story revolves about Powell's antics as a supposed lunatic, until the alienists become convinced that this craziness is "on the square" and decide to lock him up. Then his efforts to prove he's sane make him look crazier still amid comical adventures ranging from impersonating a woman to chewing up a phonograph record.

Jack Conway, who directed the hilarious Powell-Loy team in "Libeled Lady," directed the new picture, with a cast that includes Gail Patrick, Jack Carson, Florence Bates, Sidney Blackmer, Vladimir Sokoloff, Kathleen Lockhart, Fern Emmett, Joseph Crehan, George Meeker, Sig Rumann and Sara Haden.

Comedy highlights include the absurd psychopathic examination of Powell, his digging a hole in Fifth Avenue, his masquerade as a society woman to escape the authorities, his comical troubles in a balky elevator and other mad antics.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

LAW AND JUSTICE

Law is the embodiment of the moral sentiment of the people.—Blackstone.

A law is valuable not because it is law, but because there is right in it.—Henry Ward Beecher.

I believe in obeying the laws of the land. I practice and teach this obedience, since justice is the moral signification of law. Injustice denotes the absence of law.—Mary Baker Eddy.

What we seek is the reign of law, based upon the consent of the governed and sustained by the organized opinion of mankind.—Woodrow Wilson.

Our human laws are but the copies, more or less imperfect, of the eternal laws, so far as we can read them.—James Anthony Froude.

There is but one law for all, namely, that law which governs all law, the law of our Creator, the law of humanity, justice, equity—the law of nature and of nations.—Edmund Burke.

The State Bar of California today launched a movement to give increased protection of the legal rights of the 750,000 American youths affected by last week's Selective Service lottery.

Thousands of young men registered in the first draft also would be benefited by the plan.

In telegrams to members of Congress, the Board of Governors of the State Bar urged amendment of two important sections of the Soldiers and Sailors Civil Relief Act. Unless these sections are amended promptly, the new selectees may lose equities in automobiles, insurance policies, homes and other installment purchases.

"We are asking Congress to amend Sections 301 and 302 of the Soldiers and Sailors Civil Relief Act, to conform to Section 402," said Loyd Wright, president of the State Bar. "The amendments would prevent summary repossssion of automobiles, for example, when a selectee is unable to maintain payments because military service has reduced his income. Provision would be made for court investigation of the facts, to work out an adjustment protecting both the equity of the boy in the service and the rights of the holder of legal title under an instalment contract."

Exactly such protection was intended when the Soldiers and Sailors Civil Relief Act was passed, but sections 301 and 302 limited the protection to contracts entered into prior to October 17, 1940, Section 408, on the other hand, extends certain other benefits to selectees on contracts entered into or on which installments were paid 30 days prior to military service.

Because of the October 17, 1940 limitation, last week's selectees would not be fully protected, unless the amendments advocated by the State Bar are enacted.

"It is necessary to the morale of these young men and their families that they know that their interest will be protected equally with those of the first registrants," Mr. Wright continued.

NEVADA COUNTY FARMERS SHARE IN U. S. LOANS

Placer and Nevada County farmers and stockmen shared in the two billion dollars which Production Credit Associations throughout the United States have disbursed since their organization in 1934. The Marysville Production Credit Association from January first to July 1, 1941, had a higher loan disbursement than for the first six months of 1940 according to Roy J. Van Tiger, president. Reporting $597,754 loaned since January of this year, Van Tiger said a large share of it went to finance the seasonal operations of local farmers. The 1940 figure for the same period was $489,211. He attributed much of this increase to farmers' greater production of those farm commodities which are needed for the national defense program.

Since th Marysville association was organized by farmers, it has loaned $8,725,472 to finance livestock and general farming operations in the district served. Officers and directors of this credit cooperative are:

Roy J. Van Tiger, president; Parker A. Reische, vice president; Ira Rowland, director; A. B. Robertson, director; Henry H. Meschendorf, director; Roy E. Cassidy, secretary-treasurer.

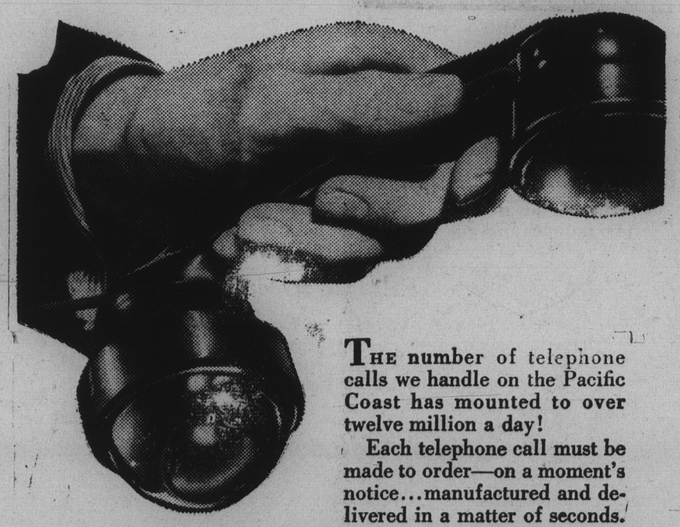
Now—more than 12 million telephone calls a day!



THE number of telephone calls we handle on the Pacific Coast has mounted to over twelve million a day!

Each telephone call must be made to order—on a moment's notice...manufactured and delivered in a matter of seconds.

That's a big job—but it's only part of the job we're doing today as the West hits its stride on National Defense work. Add to this a program of plant additions, this year, in excess of $70,000,000 of which expenditures for new construction alone will be over $57,000,000.

We are making an all-out drive of man power, materials and money to supply the kind of telephone service that will help the Pacific Coast speed its part of America's biggest job.
